Establishment of the Commission

Pursuant to section 2 of the Electoral Boundaries Commission Act (Statutes of Alberta, 1991, Chapter E-4.01 as amended), set out in Appendix A of this Interim Report, hereinafter referred to as "the Act", the Electoral Boundaries Commission, hereinafter referred to as "the Commission", was established effective January 23, 1991 consisting of The Honourable Mr. Justice Charles G. Virtue of the Court of Queen's Bench, Calgary as Chair with the following as members:

Mr. Thomas K. Biggs of Coronation

Mrs. Shirley Cripps of Westeros

Ms. Jean McBean, Q.C. of Edmonton, and

Mr. Patrick D. Ledgerwood, Chief Electoral Officer of Alberta, of Edmonton.

Mr. Justice Virtue resigned from the Commission in June, 1991 and by Order-in-Council 608/91 dated September 11, 1991 His Honour Clare L. Liden, Assistant Chief Judge, the Provincial Court of Alberta, of Edmonton, was appointed as Chair of the Commission.

Meetings

The first meeting of the Commission was held on Monday, February 4, 1991 at Calgary and deliberations of the Commission have continued since then.

Advertisements and Submissions

The Commission published an advertisement in 144 daily and weekly newspapers across Alberta inviting written submissions from individuals and/or groups. A copy of the advertisement appears in Appendix B of this Interim Report. The Commission received 89 written submissions, all of which were acknowledged and given careful consideration. The names of individuals and/or groups who provided written submissions appear in Appendix C of this Interim Report.

Mandate of the Commission

The Electoral Boundaries Commission Act not only provides for the creation of the Electoral Boundaries Commission, it also lays down its mandate; thus, section 3 of the Act provides that:

"The function of the Commission is to make proposals to the Legislative Assembly as to the area, boundaries and names of the electoral boundaries of Alberta in accordance with the rules set out in Part 2."

(Emphasis supplied)

Redistribution Rules

Part 2 of the Act is titled 'Redistribution Rules' and provides for two kinds of electoral divisions: "single municipality electoral divisions" being those that consist only of part of or the whole of one municipality [see section 12(c) of the Act] and "multi-municipality electoral divisions" being those that consist of more than one municipality as described in section 15 of the Act. The definition of "municipality" includes a Metis settlement and an Indian Reserve [see section 12(b) of the Act]. Section 12(d) of the Act defines the population of Alberta as that population "determined by the most recent census available under the Statistics Act (Canada) at the time the Commission is appointed." Thus, the population figures used by the Commission are the 1986 Census figures. The Commission is directed to divide Alberta into 83 proposed electoral divisions [see section 13(1) of the Act] consisting of 43 "single municipality electoral divisions" [see section 14 of the Act] and 40 "multi-municipality electoral divisions" [see section 15 of the Act].

A. Single Municipality Electoral Divisions

By section 14 of the Act the Commission is directed to establish single municipality electoral divisions as follows:

(a)	City of Calgary	-	19
(b)	City of Edmonton	-	17
(c)	City of Lethbridge	-	2
(d)	City of Medicine Hat	-	1
(e)	City of Red Deer	-	1
(f)	City of St. Albert	-	1
(g)	City of Ft. McMurray	-	1
(h)	County of Strathcona including the Hamlet of Sherwood Park	-	1
	TOTAL		43

B. Multi-Municipality Electoral Divisions

The remaining areas of the Province, not included in the 43 single municipality electoral divisions are required to be included in the proposed 40 "multi-municipality electoral divisions". Within the 40 multi-municipality divisions, there is provision for five special divisions: three of them consisting of parts of Red Deer, Medicine Hat and St. Albert not included in single municipality divisions plus all or part of another or other municipalities, and two of them, each consisting of a part of the City of Grande Prairie and all or part of another or other municipalities, with all of that City being included in those two electoral divisions [see section 15(d) of the Act]. The other 35 multi-municipality electoral divisions have to be delineated in accordance with section 15(e) in conjunction with section 13(2) of the Act.

Section 13(2) of the Act provides that all the section 14 municipalities, named on page 3, besides containing the requisite number of single-municipality electoral divisions, may also contain part or parts of one or more proposed multi-municipality electoral divisions under section 15 of the Act. For example, Calgary must have 19 single municipality electoral divisions completely within the boundaries of the City of Calgary. However, a part or parts of Calgary, not contained in any single municipality electoral division, may be included in proposed adjacent multi-municipality electoral division(s). In other words, all parts of municipalities of the cities named in section 14 of the Act need not be included in the single municipality electoral division(s) but rather may become part or parts of multi-municipality electoral division(s).

Section 15(e) provides that within the 40 multi-municipality electoral divisions, there shall be "35 electoral divisions consisting of (i) more than one municipality, (ii) one or more municipalities plus parts of one or more other municipalities, or (iii) parts of more than one municipality".

C. Percentage Parameters

Section 17 of the Act limits the population size of an electoral division to not more than 25% above nor 25% below the average population of all electoral divisions. However, it is permissible in no more than 4 of the electoral divisions (5% of 83) to have a population that is as much as 50% below the average population of all the electoral divisions if at least four of the seven criteria enumerated in section 17(2) of the Act are met.

D. Calculations

In order to comply with the provisions of Part 2 of the Act, the Commission made the following calculations based on population as defined in section 12(d) of the Act:

Total Population of Alberta (1986 Census data)			2,365,825
Total Number of Electoral Divisions to be created			83
Average Population per Electoral Division	$\frac{2,365,825}{83}$	=	28,504

$$\begin{array}{rcl} \text{25\% of Average Population} & \frac{28,505}{4} & = 7,126 \end{array}$$

$$\begin{array}{rcl} \text{Maximum Population Permissible} & & \\ \text{in Electoral Divisions} & & \\ \quad [\text{Section 17(1)}] & \text{Average} + 25\% & \\ & 28,504 + 7,126 = & 35,630 \end{array}$$

E. Factors for Consideration

The relevant considerations that the Commission must take into account for determining the area to be included in and in fixing the boundaries of the proposed electoral divisions are enumerated in section 16 of the Act. This section empowers the Commission to take into account "any factors it considers appropriate": however, it also makes it mandatory for the Commission to take into account the following six factors:

- (a) The Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms;
- (b) sparsity and density of population;
- (c) common community interests and community organizations, including those of Indian Reserves and Metis settlements;
- (d) the number of municipalities and other local authorities;
- (e) geographical features, including existing road systems; and
- (f) the desirability of understandable and clear boundaries.

(a) The Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms

The reference to the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms is a reference to section 3 of that Charter which provides that: "Every citizen of Canada has the right to vote in an election of members of the House of Commons or of a legislative assembly and to be qualified for membership therein." This section has been interpreted by the Supreme Court of Canada in The Attorney General for Saskatchewan v. Roger Carter (judgment delivered on June 6, 1991).

Madam Justice McLachlin in the course of her majority decision said:

" It is my conclusion that the purpose of the right to vote enshrined in s. 3 of the Charter is not equality of voting power per se, but the right to "effective representation". Ours is a representative democracy. Each citizen is entitled to be represented in government. Representation comprehends the idea of having a voice in the deliberations of government as well as the idea of the right to bring one's grievances and concerns to the attention of one's government representative; as noted in Dixon v. B.C. (A.G.), [1989] 4 W.W.R. 393, at p. 413, elected representatives function in two roles -- legislative and what has been termed the "ombudsman role".

What are the conditions of effective representation? The first is relative parity of voting power. A system which dilutes one citizen's vote runs the risk of providing inadequate representation to the citizen whose vote is diluted. The legislative power of the citizen whose vote is diluted will be reduced, as may be access to and assistance from his or her representative. The result will be uneven and unfair representation.

[A]bsolute parity is impossible. It is impossible to draw boundary lines which guarantee exactly the same number of voters in each district. Voters die, voters move. Even with the aid of frequent censuses, voter parity is impossible.

[S]uch relative parity as may be possible of achievement may prove undesirable because it has the effect of detracting from the primary goal of effective representation. Factors like geography, community history, community interests and minority representation may need to be taken into account to ensure that our legislative assemblies effectively represent the diversity of our social mosaic. These are but examples of considerations which may justify departure from absolute voter parity in the pursuit of more effective representation; the list is not closed.

It emerges therefore that deviations from absolute voter parity may be justified on the grounds of practical impossibility or the provision of more effective representation. Beyond this, dilution of one citizen's vote as compared with another's should not be countenanced. I adhere to the proposition asserted in Dixon, [Dixon v. A.G. of British Columbia] that "only those deviations should be admitted which can be justified on the ground that they contribute to better government of the populace as a whole, giving due weight to regional issues within the populace and geographic factors within the territory governed."

This is not to suggest, however, that inequities in our voting system are to be accepted merely because they have historical precedent. History is important in so far as it suggests that the philosophy underlying the development of the right to vote in this country is the broad goal of effective representation. It has nothing to do with the specious argument that historical anomalies and abuses can be used to justify continued anomalies and abuses, or suggest that the right to vote should not be interpreted broadly and remedially as befits Charter rights.

The problems of representing vast, sparsely populated territories, for example, may dictate somewhat lower populations in these districts; to insist on voter parity might deprive citizens with distinct interests of an effective voice in the legislative process as well as of effective assistance from their representatives in their "ombudsman" role. This is only one of a number of factors which may necessitate deviation from the "one person - one vote" rule in the interest of effective representation.

In the final analysis, the values and principles animating a free and democratic society are arguably best served by a definition that places effective representation at the heart of the right to vote. The concerns which Dickson C.J. in Oakes associated with a free and democratic society -- respect for the inherent dignity of the human person, commitment to social justice and equality, respect for cultural and group identity, and faith in social and political institutions which enhance the participation of individuals in society - are better met by an electoral system that focuses on effective representation than by one that focuses on mathematical parity. Respect for individual dignity and social equality mandate that citizen's votes not be unduly debased or diluted. But the need to recognize cultural and group identity and to enhance the participation of individuals in the electoral process and society requires that other concerns also be accommodated. "

The Commission attempted to apply these principles in the preparation of the report.

(b) Sparsity and Density of Population

The Commission accepted that the populations of constituencies which were primarily rural in character, and that covered large areas, could, on average, have lower voter populations.

The Commission recognized that urban constituencies with dense populations in small areas could tolerate, on average, higher populations.

However, the Commission recognized that these principles had to be modified in individual constituencies to take into account the other factors enunciated in section 16 of the Act.

(c) Common Community Interests and Community Organizations, Including Those of Indian Reserves and Metis Settlements

The Commission recognized the diversity of the Province. Within the context of the legislated mandate and the problems of producing a fair electoral map, the Commission attempted, where possible, to keep communities intact and to ensure that Indian Reserves or Metis settlements were not divided.

(d) Number of Municipalities and other Local Authorities

The Commission took into account the number of municipalities and other local authorities within each proposed electoral division. Further the Commission utilized existing municipal boundaries wherever possible.

(e) Geographical Features, Including Existing Road Systems and the Desirability of Understandable and Clear Boundaries

The Commission examined geographical features including existing road systems in an effort to establish clear and understandable boundaries.

(f) Other Factors

Under section 16 of the Act the Commission was permitted to, in addition to the factors mentioned above, consider any other factors it considered appropriate. In determining what the appropriate percentage deviation from the 1986 average should be in individual constituencies, and where the boundaries should be placed, the Commission considered, among other factors, the following:

- i) Section 12(d) of the Act establishes the use of, "the most recent census available under the Statistics Act (Canada) at the time a Commission is appointed". For the purposes of the Electoral Boundaries Commission 1991-92 the most current federal census is dated 1986. From the Census Report 1986, under Special Notes, Incompletely enumerated Indian Reserves and Indian Settlements, the following extracts are relevant to note:

On some Indian reserves and Indian settlements in the 1986 Census, enumeration was not permitted or it was interrupted before it could be completed. Certain Indian reserves and settlements are therefore footnoted in the tables as being incompletely enumerated.

It should be noted that for all tables that show data for subprovincial areas, the totals shown for 1986 for Canada and the provinces are the sums of the 1986 Census counts for the subprovincial areas and therefore do not include the estimates of the missed population and dwellings.

- ii) Population trends, particularly population changes since 1986.

Taking into consideration all the requirements of the Act, including all the factors set out in section 16 of the Act, and the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada in the Attorney General for Saskatchewan v. Roger Carter the Commission divided Alberta into 83 electoral divisions consisting of 43 single municipality electoral divisions and 40 multi-municipality electoral divisions, with the areas, boundaries and names thereof as set out in the following pages.

Public Hearings

No Public Hearings have been held to date because the Commission considered it more appropriate to conduct these hearings after this Interim Report has been submitted to the Speaker and made public pursuant to section 7(1)(b) of the Act. It is the Commission's intention therefore to hold Public Hearings on the proposals contained in this Interim Report commencing in the month of February 1992. Appropriate notices of the Public Hearings will be given as required by section 7(2) of the Act.

Electoral Boundaries Reference

The Alberta Government submitted the Electoral Boundaries Commission Act to the Alberta Court of Appeal for a reference to determine whether the Act was inconsistent with the Canadian Charter of Rights. The reference case was heard September 30, 1991. Under the terms of the Act the Commission was required to report to the Speaker prior to December 31, 1991. At the time the Commission prepared its report the Court of Appeal had not yet rendered its decision. The results of the decision of the Court of Appeal will be reflected in the Final Report.

Final Report

The Final Report of the Commission, incorporating any amendments to the proposals contained in this Interim Report and Minority View resulting from the consideration of submissions made to the Commission during the Public Hearings, will be delivered to the Speaker prior to June 30, 1992.

Interim Report and Signatories

The Interim Report and Minority View and the attached Appendices are hereby respectfully submitted. The signatures to the majority report follow below, the signature of Mrs. Shirley Cripps to the Minority View follows on page 15.

ELECTORAL BOUNDARIES COMMISSION MINORITY VIEW

The Electoral Boundaries Commission has been charged with the onerous task of establishing electoral boundaries which will serve Albertans for the next decade and which truly reflect representative democracy. While I agree with the sincere attempt of the commission to reach regional balances and in many instances agree with the recommended boundaries, I do not believe the legislative term 'multi', nor Section 13(2) means putting large numbers of Edmontonians and Calgarians into the already multi adjacent constituencies.

The legislation is the law and the spirit and intent of that legislation must be respected.

The Electoral Boundaries Commission Act, Part II - Section 14 a, b, c, g and h gives directions regarding single municipality electoral divisions. Sherwood Park, Fort McMurray and Lethbridge have been treated as single municipality constituencies in total, differently than Edmonton and Calgary. The interpretation for Edmonton and Calgary is far more in line with Part II, Section 15 a, b, c, and d, even though these two centres are not mentioned.

I believe that regional balance could have been reached as successfully without in excess of 89,000 Edmontonians and Calgarians going to multi's which led to the elimination and/or vast changes to the demography of a number of rural constituencies. Neither group is well served.

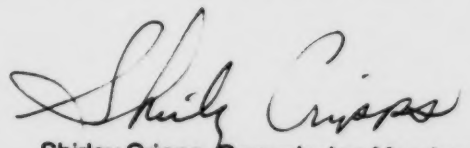

I believe that some multi-municipality constituencies adjacent to the cities will have disproportionately higher populations in the next census figures than many of their single municipality counterparts in Edmonton and Calgary. My signature on the Resolution only signifies that was the boundary discussed - not necessarily concurrence.

I do not believe numbers are the most important factor, representation is - and that means the ability of a citizen to access his or her M.L.A. This is also supported by the Supreme Court decision as written by the Honourable Mme. Justice McLachlin - pgs. 16 and 17, "effective representation is at the heart of the right to vote."

"Ours is a representative democracy. Right to vote is right to 'effective representation.' The M.L.A. functions in two roles - legislative and ombudsman." (The Honourable Mme. Justice McLachlin, Supreme Court Decision)

The key to the whole process must be representation which means keeping in mind the work of an individual M.L.A. as well as Part II, Section 16 a, b, c, d, e and f. While sparsity and density of population indirectly alludes to size and area of a constituency, the distance an M.L.A. or the constituent has to travel to see each other is a key factor in effective representation. Sparsity is time, distance and access. The other key factor is the number of municipal governments and municipal boards an M.L.A. must meet with and represent. Balancing the numbers is only one aspect of the electoral boundaries deliberation.

Given that the legislation is the law, and that I do not believe that these boundaries were set in keeping with the spirit of the legislation, I cannot in all conscience concur in the report. Ensuring that all Albertans have fair and equal access to government via their elected member is a difficult task. I appreciate the sincere effort of the commission to accomplish this task.
